While Andrew is collecting evidence, a young boy steals a rosary from the father's hand. The boy later sells it to a woman who sends it to her daughter, Frankie Paige, living in Pittsburgh. Frankie is later attacked by an unseen force while bathing, and receives two deep wounds on her wrists.

"At Durning's church, Andrew meets Petrocelli, who tells him the words Frankie has been writing are part of the document Dead Sea Scrolls found outside Jerusalem they believed to be a gospel in the exact words of Jesus."
